

Sigma Xi, the Scientific Research Honor Society welcomes members who would like to contribute to a vision and plan that fosters and supports our Society as an organization that is truly inclusive of all people.

Serving Sigma Xi in a leadership position provides opportunities to help guide the future of the Society. Nominating someone, or yourself, for a position in Sigma Xi leadership is the first step. If you want to make a difference, let your voice be heard, engage in the process today.

Nominations for president-elect and treasurer are due by March 1. Nominations for directors, associate directors, and the Committee on Nominations are due by June 30.

Why serve?

Your voice can bring about changes that affect science, research, education, knowledge and communication. Sharing your knowledge, experience and ethical values helps to advance Sigma Xi's mission and promotes a culture that will create a broader pathway toward recognition of excellence in scientific and engineering research for researchers and scientists across disciplines.

What qualifications should nominees have?

Active, full members of Sigma Xi are eligible for office. An inactive member may become active at any time through payment of current dues.

Strong leadership and organizational skills, motivation, and someone who values and promotes honor in science and research would be well suited for a leadership position with Sigma Xi.

How do I nominate someone?

Do you know someone you would like to nominate, a colleague or yourself? If so, please submit a letter of recommendation that includes: the nominee's name, chapter, region or constituency, contact information, and why you feel this person would be a great leader with Sigma Xi to elections@sigmaxi.org, and we'll take it from there.*

*Sigma Xi will help determine a nominee's eligibility for serving in a director, associate director or committee position; the Committee on Nominations will determine a nominee's eligibility to serve as President or Treasurer of the Society.
